

Andrea Paliani

Andrea Paliani, born in Perugia on 1 July 1968, is a partner and director of Ernst & Young (EY) for the Mediterranean region, where he coordinates some 2,000 consultants in Spain, Portugal and Italy, and also 50 partners.

Previously at EY he was the global director of energy sector consulting services and the continental Europe director of telecom, media and technology consulting services.

As the managing director of the EY consultancy, he is responsible for coordinating the strategic consulting services needed to transform industrial and service businesses and public authority entities by means of digital technologies and innovation in the spheres of operations, products and processes. Open innovation, industry 4.0, customer journey digital transformation strategies, marketing and digital advertising, the supply chain, digital transformation and big data and analytical projects are the most ground-breaking frontier of the strategic EY consultancy.